SC frees Satur; gov't evidence seen to be 'weak'

Manila—The Supreme Court today freed Satur Ocampo, a former congressman and a key figure in the 1986 People's Revolution, after a two-day hearing. The court found the government's case against him "weak" and "lacking in probative value."

Declining pit

The court's decision in Ocampo's favor was a significant blow to the government's case against him. Ocampo, 57, was charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of P100 million in 1986. The court's decision was based on the government's failure to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.
